

7 tips for parents: How to remember to speak the minority language

multilingualparenting.com

- 7 tips for parents: How to remember to speak the minority language
- 7 tips for parents: How to remember to speak the minority language "I want to speak my language with the kids but keep forgetting. Can you help me?" This was one of the questions during the first ever Multilingual Parenting Facebook LIVE Q&A session (you can join the Multilingual Parenting Facebook group to listen [...])

10 ways to motivate your baby and toddler to speak your language

- 10 ways to motivate your bilingual baby and toddler to speak
- Starting early, getting into the habit and staying positive are some of the vital components for getting your bilingual baby or toddler to speak a minority language. This is a short video based on the first part of the post 40 ways to motivate bilingual children to speak the minority language.

Welcome to Multilingual Par...

12 things parents raising bilingual children need to know

- 12 things parents raising bilingual children need to know
- This post is also available in the following languages (click on the picture to read the post). More translations to follow: 1 – It doesn't happen by magic Children do not become bilingual "by magic". There is a persistent myth claiming that "children are like sponges when it comes to language" and that they will [...]

- Q&A: The other parent does not understand your language – should you speak it with

12 Things Parents Raising Bilingual Children Need to Know

- 12 things parents raising bilingual children need to know VIDEO
- Video based on the popular post 12 things parents raising bilingual children need to know The blog article is also available in Belarusian, Catalan, Traditional Chinese and Simplified Chinese, Czech, Estonian, Finnish, French, German, Greek, Hungarian, Irish, Italian, Persian/Farsi, Polish, Brazilian Portuguese, Romanian, Russian, Slovak, Spanish, Swedish, and Ukrainian. Is your language not on [...]

How to use "monolingual toys" to motivate bilingual children

- How to use "monolingual toys" to motivate bilingual children
- "How do I introduce another language for my toddler?" "How can I motivate my little one to speak my language?" "How to have fun when practicing the kids' minority language?" These are questions I often get in the queries sent to our team of Family Language Coaches. One of the recommendations I often give [...] your baby?

- Question Hello, I'm so happy to stumble upon this website. It is lovely to see that we are not the only one with many MANY questions about raising a multilingual individual and that there is help out there 😊 Here is our situation: Our son is 4 months old and we live in Germany. [...]

- Raising two very different multilingual Third Culture Kids [guest post]
- Today's captivating guest post is by multilingual mother Rita Golstein-Galperin, a Career Makeover Strategist® for international women and the founder of Reinvent Yourself Club. She is a multicultural mother of two TCKs (Third Culture Kids) in Paris and a passionate lover of all chocolate. She is also an author, entrepreneur, public speaker and a career and business [...]

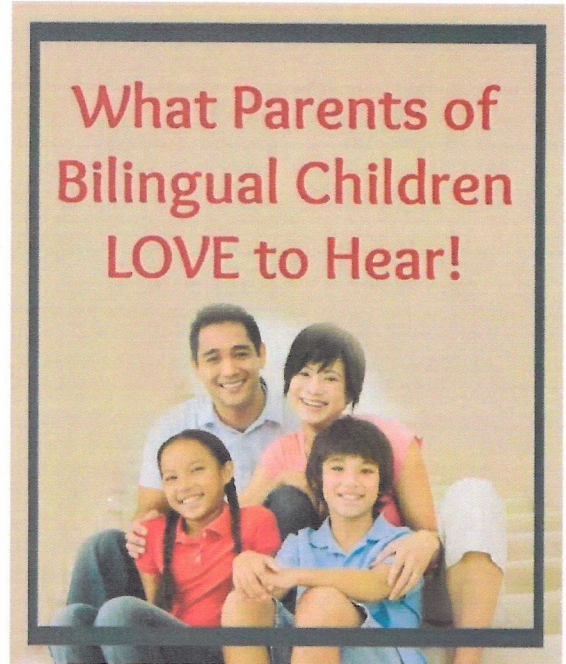

8 tips to boost your family's multilingual journey

by Amanda Hsiung-Blodgett

- 8 tips to boost your family's multilingual journey [guest post]
- Today I am delighted to introduce you to our new Family Language Coach, Amanda Hsiung-Blodgett, a.k.a, Miss Panda Chinese. Amanda is a successful language instructor with over 15 years' teaching experience in Taiwan, the U.S., Morocco, Canada, and Ecuador. She now lives in the U.S. with her husband and two bilingual children. Enjoy Amanda's excellent [...]

- Grandparents as language support for bilingual children
- As parents raising bilingual children we know how important it is to give our kids as varied an exposure to their languages as possible. This becomes even more crucial if we are passing on a minority language. Building a network of people who can support us in this task is important and a good and [...]

What Parents of Bilingual Children LOVE to Hear!

for

- What parents of bilingual children LOVE to hear!
- Today's post you can find over at Multicultural Kid Blogs – check out what parents raising bilingual children love to hear. What about you, what would make your day?

Advertisement

3

What parents of bilingual children love to hear

It's a great way to find out all the cultural and family differences that can help parents raise their children to be bilingual and bicultural.

8 tips to boost your family's multilingual journey (first post)

8 tips to boost your family's multilingual journey (first post)

I have been delighted to introduce you to my new family friend, the world's first

Hispanic Blogger of Color, Brenda Chen

Andri's a mom of two boys, 7 and 5,

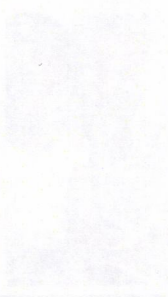

with over 15 years of teaching experience

from the US, Canada, and the UK.

She's a bilingual mom and a mom of multilingual kids. She's also a Hispanic mom of color.

Grandparents as language support for bilingual children

Grandparents as language support for bilingual children

As parents to my bilingual children, we now report that the conversation is expanding to include the other parents who are bilingual.

It's a great way to find out all the cultural and family differences that can help parents raise their children to be bilingual and bicultural.

